INTRALESIONAL TRIAMCINOLONE (KENALOG)
INJECTION CONSENT FORM

Date: / / MR#: #

Name of Patient: Date of Birth: / /

Purpose: Triamcinolone is a synthetic glucocorticoid corticosteroid that has marked anti-inflammatory action. It is prepared in sterile aqueous suspension suitable for injecting directly into a lesion on or immediately below the skin to treat a dermal inflammatory process.

Indications: It is indicated for alopecia areata; inflammatory acne cysts; discoid lupus erythematosus; keloids and hypertrophic scars; inflammatory lesions of granuloma annulare, lichen planus, lichen simplex chronicus (neurodermatitis), psoriatic plaques, and other localized inflammatory skin conditions.

Potential Side Effects: I understand that triamcinolone injection can potentially cause early and/or delayed adverse effects such as:

- pain • impaired wound healing • increased hair growth
• bleeding • white or brown marks • steroid acne
• infection • telangiectasia • skin thinning
• Cutaneous and subcutaneous lipoatrophy (most common) appearing as skin indentations or dimples around the injection sites a few weeks after treatment

Although all reasonable efforts will be made to minimize the possibility of these potential complications, no guarantees can be made.

Other Acknowledgements and Disclosures: I am able to read and understand English. I have had the opportunity to discuss this procedure with the physician or other professional who is to perform it and have had all of my questions answered to my satisfaction.
